Nau mai, tauti mai ki Te Whare Wānaka o Aoraki.

Te Whare Wānaka o Aoraki (Lincoln University) is focused on providing excellence in the teaching and delivery options for tauira Māori, Mātauraka and Kaupapa Māori rakahau, research and engagement opportunities with iwi, hapū, whānau and Māori. Our land-based specialisation has a natural synergy with whenua, mahika kai and te taiao and our graduates are often those that provide expert advice, facilitation and development of Māori land assets both in Aotearoa and around the world. Our focus on mahika kai also allows us to move between the revitalisation of traditional crops and foods to contemporary food innovation and technology.

At Te Whare Wānaka o Aoraki, our programmes have a specificity that allows our tauira and our alumni to show their uniqueness in the market place. A key service we offer tauira is connectivity to the Māori economy through internships, joint scholarships and facilitated work placements.

We look forward to welcoming your whānau to our Whare Wānaka and supporting you on your educational journey.

Haere mai e kā iwi katoa.

Whanaukataka

Ko tā mātou whakatauāki te pūtake o te whare wānaka nei hai ārahi i a mātou haere.

Te Awhioraki

Ko Te Awhioraki te reo tātaki o kā taurira Māori. Me he take kai mua i te aroaro o te takata, ko te reo tātaki tērā ka kawea atu ki a LUSA.

Heoi, me he āwakawaka tāhau e pā ana ki āu pepa akomaka, me tonu atu hoki ki a Te Manutaki.

Te Awhioraki is an association that represents all Māori students on campus and is managed and run by Māori students. It provides social, cultural and academic support to students during their stay at Lincoln.

Following our value of whakawhanaukataka, Te Awhioraki works alongside the Lincoln University Student's Association (LUSA) by advocating for students and providing them with an independent voice.

Te Awhioraki also has representation on the University Council Committee responsible for Māori Development (Ahumairiki) and the LUSA Executive, thereby providing an influencing voice for Māori student issues.

Te Awhioraki is also a member of Te Mana Akonga (National Māori Student's Association).

Mā mātou koe me tō whānau e manaaki

Kia whai wā hoki koe ki ētahi o kā kaupapa manaaki kai Te Whare Wānaka o Aoraki.

Inā he hiakai koe ki kā rokoā hai kai mō te wairua, tēnā, haere mai ki Te Whare Whakakotahi, mā Te Awhioraki koe hai manaaki.

Whiua atu kā raru ki te taha, uru mai ki rō te whare o te manaaki.

He mea hou tēnei tūmomo ki a koe?

Tēnā, mā Te Manutaki koe e manaaki, mā kā tuakana koe e tiaki, mā te whakawhanaukataka koe e tau.

Whakapiri mai whakatata mai ki kā kaupapa ka tū puta noa i te tau.

Nau mai tauti mai!

Ka tū kā kaupapa whanaukataka ia marama kia piri tahi kā taura katoa mō te whakawhiti kōrero, te haka, te waiata, te kai hoki.

Ko Te Manutaki, ko Te Awhioraki kā rika whakahaere o kā kaupapa whanaukataka. Ahakoa te puku mahi o ētahi, ka whai wā ki te tuhono.

Together Te Manutaki and Te Āwhioraki provide events and activities that celebrate being whānau, and a culturally safe environment during your studies at Lincoln University.

All our activities focus on filling your wairua cup, to re-energise students and to remind each other of support that is available for whatever reason.

Kōrero mai kā Tumuaki o Te Awhioraki

Ikoa: Brooklyn Greer-Atkins

Iwi: Ngati Rakaipaaka, Ngati Porou

Kai hea tō kāika?

I come from Bulls in the North Island, 20 minutes north of Palmerston North

He aha tō kaupapa kai Te Whare Wānaka o Aoraki?

I am studying a Bachelor of Commerce (Agriculture) so I can get a degree under my belt for something to fall back on. My main plan is to join the Police, but I also have a passion for farming and resource management.

Kua riro i a koe te tūraka Tumuaki mō Te Awhioraki, he aha tō whāika mō te tau e heke mai ana?

I want to create a safe and enjoyable space for all Māori taura.

He aha tētahi whakatauki whakatauāki rānei?

Don't watch the clock, do what it does, keep going.

– Sam Levenson

Ikoa: Travis O'Boyle

Iwi: Ngā Puhi and Ngāti Wai

Kai hea tō kāika?

I grew up in Christchurch, but home is in Fairlie and Waimate in South Canterbury.

He aha tō kaupapa kai Te Whare Wānaka o Aoraki?

I'm currently studying a Bachelor of Land and Property Management, majoring in Rural Valuation and Finance. I have a passion for farming and working with people, and Lincoln University offered me a great education and the tools to be able to enter the professional rural work force.

Kua riro i a koe te tūraka Tumuaki mō Te Awhioraki, he aha tō whāika mō te tau e heke mai ana?

I want to continue to enhance Te Awhioraki's ability to support taurira and run events that bring taurira together to celebrate and enjoy being at Lincoln University and champion cultural diversity on campus.

He aha tētahi whakataukī whakatauāki rānei?

Yesterday's the past, tomorrow's the future, but today is a gift. That's why it's called the present. – Bil Keane

Akoraka huhua

Bachelor of Environmental Policy and Planning (Hons)

The Bachelor of Environmental Policy and Planning provides the knowledge and tools to critically discuss topical and enduring global issues so that you can learn to better manage the environment in a range of contexts.

Bachelor of Viticulture and Oenology

We developed the first cool climate wine production programme, and we've been leading the way ever since. Our Bachelor of Viticulture and Oenology degree will prepare you for a fulfilling career in the wine sector.

Diploma in Farm Management (Level 6)

The Diploma in Farm Management leads on from the Diploma in Agriculture and is perfect if you're seeking a management career. You'll study all aspects of agribusiness management, including land purchase and ownership, financial and taxation management, investment analysis, agricultural law, labour management and law, and machinery ownership.

Bachelor of Agricultural Science

Agricultural production is critical to feeding the world's population. The Bachelor of Agricultural Science will teach you how to help farmers and primary producers meet the requirements of international markets, with an expectation for food to be traceable from paddock to plate.

Bachelor of Agriculture

The Bachelor of Agriculture uses real world examples and practical experiences to produce graduates who can make a difference in jobs across all areas of agricultural production and related industries.

Bachelor of Science

As our world changes, we need highly skilled individuals who can tackle the big issues. How do we feed the world while minimising environmental impact? How do we protect our environment from biological threats? How do we maintain good environmental quality?

Bachelor of Environmental Management

The Bachelor of Environmental Management will give you the skills to distinguish between environmental policy and planning principles, methods and tools and apply them in varying contexts, from the city streets to rural land.

Bachelor of Commerce (Agriculture)

The Bachelor of Commerce (Agriculture) is a specialised, industry-based degree that will prepare you for leadership in both the farming and agribusiness sectors.

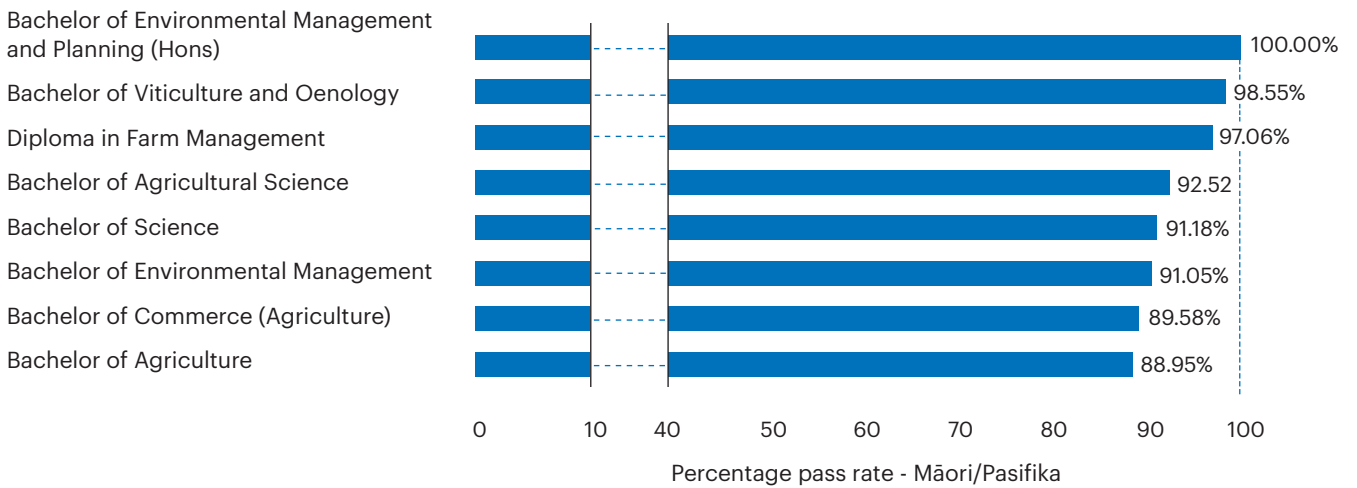

Bachelor of Land and Property Management

Our Bachelor of Land and Property Management is the most comprehensive property-focused degree in Australasia. You can study an urban or rural specialisation, or both – or combine property studies with an additional area of focus such as accounting, finance, investment, planning, environmental management, geomatics or marketing. We call this 'property plus'. There is also the possibility of spending a semester or two at a university overseas.

Taura wellbeing is central to supporting learner success. Our Māori and Pasifika Wellbeing programme seeks to engage, support and facilitate activities and initiatives that bring taura together, facilitate services to meet their needs and promote cultural safety on campus.

These activities and initiatives are developed in collaboration with Te Awhioraki and LUPISA within the context of Te Whare Tapa Whā, Ola Manuia and Fonofale.
