About Lincoln University

Lincoln University is located in the heart of New Zealand's South Island. 58 hectares of green fields surround this historic yet modern campus, where around 3,000 students from more than 65 countries go busily about growing their futures.

Lincoln's strategic mission is "to unlock the power of the land to enhance lives and grow the future". This requires joint efforts in Aotearoa New Zealand and with international partners to increase productivity, reduce environmental footprints and embrace the whole value chain from soil to fork.

The 240-credit Master of Landscape Architecture is only two years in duration, which makes it one of the shortest of its kind in Australasia. You will learn all the advanced knowledge and skills necessary to practise Landscape Architecture at a professional level.

Key features

You will:

- Gain advanced skills in spatial analysis, design evaluation and research
- Apply your in-depth knowledge to real-world issues within the Landscape Architecture profession
- Learn from world-class lecturers within Landscape Architecture
- Grow your career opportunities by completing one of the shortest MLA programmes in Australasia.

Graduate outcomes

Take your career prospects to the next level as a professional Landscape Architect. You can start your own practice or work for a firm or government organisation. Collaborate with ecologists, architects, planners and engineers on a wide range of projects. You may also be able to continue on to PhD study.

Accreditation

Our Master of Landscape Architecture is accredited by the New Zealand Institute of Landscape Architects (NZILA), meaning graduates are eligible to become registered professionals who are highly sought-after within both public and private sectors throughout New Zealand, Australia and internationally.
