

Grow your opportunities with free* study options at Lincoln, now extended until the end of 2022.

LINCOLN
UNIVERSITY
TE WHARE WĀNAKA O AORAKI

With the food, fibre and environment sectors calling for more qualified professionals we are offering a range of free programmes designed to expand your future in those areas, and many more.

And, we have extended those fee waiver options until the end of 2022 so take advantage of the opportunity now.

It's our way of helping to meet the post-COVID needs of the New Zealand economy.

Now's your chance to grow into your potential and be part of shaping a world that benefits from a greater relationship with the land. You'll arrive at your career globally connected, forward thinking and ready to shape tomorrow.

Whether you want to enhance your employability after completing an undergraduate degree, make a career change, or undertake tertiary study for the first time, these programmes offer a multitude of opportunities.

There are a lot of options around how long you want to study and at what level, whether vocational diploma and certificate programmes or postgraduate level. It's your choice and your future.

Don't miss out.

*Applies as a fee waiver for Certificate of University Studies, selected sub-degree diplomas, postgraduate certificates and diplomas, and taught masters degrees. For domestic students only. Student services fee not included. Entry criteria apply.

Diploma and Certificate Programmes

To support domestic students into jobs in the food and fibre sectors, the Government's Targeted Training and Apprenticeship Fund (TTAF) is covering course costs for five Lincoln University programmes from July 2020 until December 2022.

No previous tertiary study experience is necessary and if successful you can go on to study for a degree or head straight into a job.
