COME AND GROW WITH US.

Sport has always been part of studying at Lincoln University. We compete against universities and institutions and have played in local competitions for decades: in hockey, rowing, rugby, cricket and a myriad of other codes.

It has been part of how we grow students, more than just academically, expanding opportunities and building a sense of pride and accomplishment among peers.

Since 1999, Lincoln has offered sports scholarships for dedicated sportspeople to achieve their goals on the field and court, and in the lecture theatre.

Lincoln is also a member of University and Tertiary Sport New Zealand, a not-for-profit organisation that enables competition and workforce opportunities for tertiary students in sport.

This sits alongside a dedicated commitment encouraging social sport and the benefits it brings: making friends and having fun.

If you want to play sport at Lincoln University at any level, there's a place for you.

BASKETBALL

As well as entering teams into the local Christchurch competition, Lincoln has become adept at the 3x3 basketball format, with men's and women's teams both travelling to China (as New Zealand's entrants in the competition, after winning their national competitions) to take on the best players from around the world in the FISU University World Cup.

The format, a shortened street-style version, featured in the 2020 Tokyo Olympics.

Our basketballers take on New Zealand universities in both 3x3 and 5x5 games, claiming national titles.

While still a sports scholar Lauren Hippolyte made the Tall Ferns, playing as far afield as Jordan.

Basketball alumni include members of the Canterbury Rams, Canterbury Wildcats and Wellington Saints, as well as age-group national reps.

James Cawthorn

Former LU basketball scholar James Cawthorn graduated in 2017 with a Bachelor of Sport and Recreation Management, and sport has definitely forged his career path.

He won a national title with the Saints and has also played for the Canterbury Rams and made the NZ 3x3 Men's side, as well as playing for the Canterbury Men's U23 team for four years while at LU (2014-17).

"The scholarship gave me the opportunity to go to China in 2017 to play for Lincoln in the World University 3x3 games.

"You will make lifelong friends and a ton of memories."

I really enjoyed the sports scholarship programme and culture at Lincoln.

CRICKET

This programme has produced a host of Black Caps and White Ferns as well as provincial and age group players, and Lincoln is home to the New Zealand Cricket High Performance Centre as well as the top-class venue, the Bert Sutcliffe Oval.

We host many age-group tournaments and international warm-up matches, and on one occasion a Sheffield Shield game, when the Australian competition wanted to cross the Tasman.

Alumni include Black Caps Tom Latham, Todd Astle, Kyle Jamieson and Andrew Ellis, as well as White Fern Amy Satterthwaite.

Amy Satterthwaite

Former White Fern Amy Satterthwaite attended Lincoln University on a cricket scholarship, graduating in 2010 with a Bachelor of Science. She made her international debut in 2007 and played 145 ODIs and 111 T20Is, becoming the first woman to score a century in four consecutive one-day innings in 2017.

Kyle Jamieson

Kyle moved to Christchurch from Auckland for the scholarship, studying for a Bachelor of Commerce. He made the Black Caps in 2019, with his first-class debut for Canterbury against Wellington in 2014. He has quickly become one of the stars of the New Zealand bowling attack.

ELITE SPORTS

Elite covers a range of sports – from track and field to martial arts, to ice hockey.

It has produced world championship medallists, as well as national title holders, and New Zealand and provincial representatives, all benefiting from the skills and conditioning offered in the scholarship programme.

Calum Woodill

Lincoln University sports scholar Calum Woodill, who brought home two bronzes from the ITF Tae Kwon Do World Championships in Germany and was Lincoln University Sportsperson of the year in 2019, said the programme at Lincoln was a big part of his success. He was able to work with conditioning coaches on a specialised martial arts gym programme three times a week, and he enjoyed the use of the top facilities at Lincoln.

The mindspace and nutrition coaching aspects of the sports programme were a huge help in getting ready for a competition. Also the programme was able to accommodate my academic priorities.

Kristy Havill

Kristy was a clay-target shooting world silver medallist with the New Zealand women's team, and a national champion in the sport, and also a Canterbury representative cricketer. In 2018 Kristy was selected to be New Zealand's sole representative at the International University Sports Federation (FISU) Volunteer Leader's Academy in Russia.

HOCKEY

The Hockey programme has produced a number of Black Sticks, as well as Canterbury senior and age-group reps, with scholars playing for local teams, but donning Lincoln colours for tournaments.

Olivia Merry

Black Sticks co-captain Olivia Merry won gold at the 2018 Gold Coast Commonwealth Games and Bronze in Glasgow in 2014 and has played in two Olympics. She has 277 caps for the national side and has scored a record 127 goals.

ROWING

Lincoln University Rowing Club was re-established on campus in 2010 when a small squad of rowers headed to Dunedin and the NZ Universities Rowing Champs at Lake Waihola. From here the club has grown over the years to around 40 members who compete annually at the Aon University Rowing Champs.

The New Zealand university trials are held concurrently with the regatta and rowers have the opportunity of selection into the Trans-Tasman university squad as well as the New Zealand Universities team.

Sam Bosworth

Sam won a gold medal at the Tokyo Olympics coxing the men's eight. This added to the his bronze with the women's eight he won in 2017, when he became the first male to cox a women's crew to a medal at the event, and a silver with the same crew in 2018.

NETBALL

Lincoln University Netball plays competitive netball through the Christchurch Netball Centre (CNC), with most grades now playing indoors at the Nga Puni Wai Sports Hub Netball centre. Our players and alumni grace the Silver Ferns, Tactix, and Mainland NNL squads, and some players have made the NZ U19.

Silver Fern Jane Watson attended Lincoln University on a sports scholarship, completing a Bachelor of Sport and Recreation Management in 2010. Other scholars that have represented the Tactix include Charlotte Elley, Kate and Lily Fletcher.

Natasha Ryan

Natasha Ryan had a great 2019 season on the netball court, being named Mainland Beko Players' Player of the Year.

She chose the Sports Scholarship at Lincoln University as it would provide a great opportunity for her to train and push herself while having expert trainers to provide their services and facilities.

"I also chose Lincoln as I wanted to grow as a person, moving cities to experience university life away from home."

"I would recommend taking part in the scholarship programme as it is a great group culture and like a little family."

I enjoy taking part in the occasional house challenges and sharing training times with other competitive people.

RUGBY

Black Ferns and All Blacks top the long Rugby Roll of Honour. Lincoln University is prolific at producing top-class athletes.

Both the Premier Men's and Women's teams have finished in the top end of the Christchurch Metro Competition in recent years. Lincoln University also field men's teams in the Premier Reserve and Colts grades.

There is a strong pathway from the blue and yellow to representative rugby teams for Crusaders, Matatū, Canterbury, NZU and to the black jersey. Past/present players include Sam Whitelock, Scott and Jordie Barrett, Fletcher Newell, Alana and Chelsea Bremner and Georgia Ponsonby.

Please follow our LU Rugby Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/groups/1266643036727229>

Kendra Cocksedge

Originally from Taranaki, the former Black Fern moved to Canterbury to study at Lincoln University, and was the 2015 World Rugby Women's Player of the Year. She was a member of the 2010, 2017, and 2021 Women's Rugby World Cup winning squads. In the 2021 New Year Honours, Kendra was appointed a Member of the New Zealand Order of Merit, for services to rugby. She is now the Women and Girls Rugby Manager- South Island, for New Zealand Rugby.

I took the first step to reach my goals by thinking about my education. If you want to grow and become who you want to be, you have to work for it.

Sport is a huge part of Sam Blackmore's life, and he has been a coach, tutor and mentor for almost 10 years in both paid and volunteer capacities, from academic settings to grassroots sport at a club level, and also through to national development squads. Lincoln's Bachelor of Sport and Recreation Management was the obvious choice when he began considering degree options.

He chose Lincoln due to the combination of smaller class sizes and the management focus of the sport and recreation degree.

"The university's size allows for great relationships with lecturers, who really make the theoretical content of the degree applicable to the real world," he says. "They bring a huge wealth of knowledge and have strong connections with the sector."

"The lecturers are really helpful and I like the friendships you make at Lincoln," she says. "It's such a small uni, everyone's so friendly and you get to know people quickly."
