Regulations

Background

CBRE is one of the largest real estate firms in the world with over 140,000 employees in 500+ offices in over 100 countries. CBRE employs over 390 people across 21 locations in New Zealand providing the full range of real estate services including valuation, agency, agri-services, debt and equity, property management, research, building depreciation & cost consultancy, structured transactions & advisory services and marketing.

Christopher Charles Barraclough was a stalwart of the New Zealand property and valuation fraternity, and a champion of CBRE Valuation. Chris epitomised what a top property professional should be with such attributes as unwavering integrity, attention to detail and a hard work ethic. Chris was held in the highest of regards by his colleagues, clients, and peers alike. He was a meticulous professional, had an innate ability to unravel complexities and draw pragmatic and insightful conclusions. Chris was generous with his wisdom and the nurturing of talent from graduation through to registration and beyond. While Chris gallantly lost his fight with cancer in 2021, his legacy, friendship and impact on the property profession lives on.

The CBRE Chris Barraclough Memorial Scholarship is aimed at supporting emerging talent to excel in their property studies and memorialise the vast contribution Chris made to the property industry, encouraging attributes that help set the foundation of a great property professional.
